

Just one more reason not to bother with adopting HDTV.

For those of us that only buy things on value, HDTV will never be a good value with less functionallity. Why would I pay more for something that has less funcitonality. I'm not a slave to TV, I often record even the news so I can veiw it when I have time. Requiring even more expensive and complex hardware is not a reasonable option.

It is amazing to me that Hollywood seems to enjoy greater protection under the law than anyone else.
